WHO WE ARE

The International Network on Health and Hepatitis in Substance Users (INHSU) is a global network of people dedicated to improving the health of people who use drugs, including people who use drugs, advocates, healthcare providers, program managers, harm reduction experts, researchers, and policymakers.

OUR THREE FOCUS AREAS ARE:

Knowledge exchange

We share knowledge on good practice and research that seeks to improve access to prevention, treatment, and care for hepatitis C, other infectious diseases, and harms that can occur from drug use.

Education

We educate healthcare providers, program managers, harm reduction experts, researchers, policymakers, and others to improve their knowledge, confidence and skills.

Advocacy

We work with our international partners to develop evidence-based calls to action and encourage decision-makers to implement proven interventions that improve the health of people who use drugs in local communities, countries, regions, and globally.

"INHSU is an inspiration for my daily work. It provides me with input and new ideas on how I can improve health care at our centre. It is an exciting community of engaged people from different professions and disciplines with an immense power to move things forward."

Phillip Bruggmann, INHSU founder, current member and Head of Internal Medicine at the Arud Centre for Addiction Medicine in Zurich, Switzerland.

"Once you join, you'll never look back; it's a vibrant and forward-thinking network."

Dr Nadine Kronfli, INHSU member and Assistant Professor, Department of Medicine, Division of Infectious Diseases, McGill University, Montréal, Canada

"INHSU connects me with like minded individuals, who are all committed to improving the lives of people who use drugs. Being part of INHSU has helped empower me to do my Masters in Public Health. Join now whilst we have a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to eliminate hepatitis C"
