Good Shepherd's flexible, No Interest Loans help women who have experienced or are experiencing family violence to move to safety, stay at home securely, and rebuild their lives after family and domestic violence.

Unlike payday loans or wage advances, Good Shepherd's NILs program is government-funded, with no fees, charges or interest to pay. Loans of up to $2,000 can help with rental bond*, moving costs, household essentials, utility bills*, legal fees, security equipment and new technology. Pay back only what you borrow, over 24 months.

You may be eligible if you:

- Have experienced family or domestic violence in the past 10 years;
- Are aged 17 years or older;
- Are an Australian citizen, permanent resident, or hold a valid visa for the duration of the loan; and
- Can show you have a source of income to make loan repayments.

Available for:

- ✓ Bond and rent*
- ✓ Utilities*
- ✓ Security items
- ✓ Removalist and transport costs
- ✓ Furniture and whitegoods
- ✓ Legal costs
- ✓ Car registration and repairs
- ✓ Technology e.g. laptop, phone
- ✓ Medical and dental
- ✓ Education and training costs
- ✓ Employment tools/equipment
- ✓ Pet costs

Loans available up to $3000 for these items only.*

Please note: Loans are not for cash, debt consolidation or car purchases. Affordability and capacity to repay is assessed during the loan qualification process.
