

Kit and Arlo Find a Way

Be quick
and get 20%
OFF

The ultimate program for teachers and parents to teach 8–12 year olds about consent and respectful relationships.

The program includes:

- an action-packed and relatable fictional chapter book
- lesson plans and discussion points
- activity templates
- online teaching activities
- videos
- webinars
- podcasts
- and updated links to additional resources.

Consent education for children is actually teaching them about being human – age appropriate consent content, has mostly nothing to do with ‘sex’, especially for younger children.

Teaching consent to children is actually teaching them about being human because...

- Consent is relationships
- Consent is essential to humanity
- Consent is showing kindness, compassion, empathy and respect
- Consent is connection, communication and safety
- Consent is permission, reciprocity, generosity, and how to show respect for ourselves and for others
- Consent is wanting the best for yourself and for others

Kit and Arlo, the ultimate program to support you when teaching consent to 8–12 year olds covers all this and much, much, more.

Teaching consent gives children and young people, fundamental, internal decision-making skills and knowledge of the nuances of consent and consent communication, so that they can take those developed decision making skills with them into all relationships in their journey throughout life when they are older.

Be quick
and get 20% OFF

Buy your copy today

<https://shop.acer.org/kit-and-arlo-find-a-way.html>

Use discount code

Kit$ArloEdu2020

(for the first 300 customers)

Ingrid Laguna is an award-winning novelist and educator.

Vanessa Hamilton is a renowned sexuality, respect and consent educator.

