Career Management isn't one-size- fits-all

Especially when it comes to a group as diverse and capable as first responders.

Fortem's Career Management Program supports first responders in their career aspirations and goals. Our independent Career Resilience support is provided to current first responders through their agencies where available. Focusing on individual career resilience, engagement and wellbeing, this program is designed to support first responders to fulfill their career goals within the agency.

The Career Transition program is individually tailored to the unique needs of first responders, promoting a holistic approach to career transition, lifestyle planning and wellbeing. Career Transition supports first responders to exit with dignity and navigate this unfamiliar territory into the next phase of their career. Together we plan the pathway that is right for the first responder.
