2024 National Food Waste Summit

ENDFOODWASTE
AUSTRALIA

Melbourne Convention and Exhibition Centre
24-25 July 2024

EVENT DETAILS

End Food Waste Australia is proud to again host Australia's biggest gathering dedicated to fighting food waste, and we invite you to be involved.

Following the resounding success of our event in 2022, we are delighted to return for the National Food Waste Summit 2024, a significant fixture in your calendar.

Over two days we will convene distinguished experts from renowned organisations in the industry and across the globe to deliberate on solutions for mitigating food loss and waste. On the main stage, industry leaders specialising in food waste, behaviour change, and sustainability will engage in discussions regarding the critical needs and effective measures to halve food waste in Australia. The popular showcase stage features the latest research projects, hands-on interventions and actions from the Sector Action Plan findings (including Horticulture, Meat and Hospitality). Immerse yourself in knowledge building workshops that promise to revolutionise the way we approach and conquer food waste challenges.

There is no time to waste if Australia is to halve food waste by 2030.

Join us along with over 500 delegates from across the food industry, government, NGO and research sectors. Together, we will collaborate to address food loss and waste to deliver tangible economic, social, and environmental benefits for the Australian community.

DATE – Wednesday 24th – Thursday 25th July, 2024

LOCATION – Melbourne Convention and Exhibition Centre

2024 National Food Waste Summit

KEY ATTENDEES

Summit delegates will include food and related industry businesses of all sizes, including businesses from the whole food supply chain, from farm to retail. Also attending will be researchers and industry specialists along with the best and brightest students from Australia's leading Universities.

Delegates will consist of

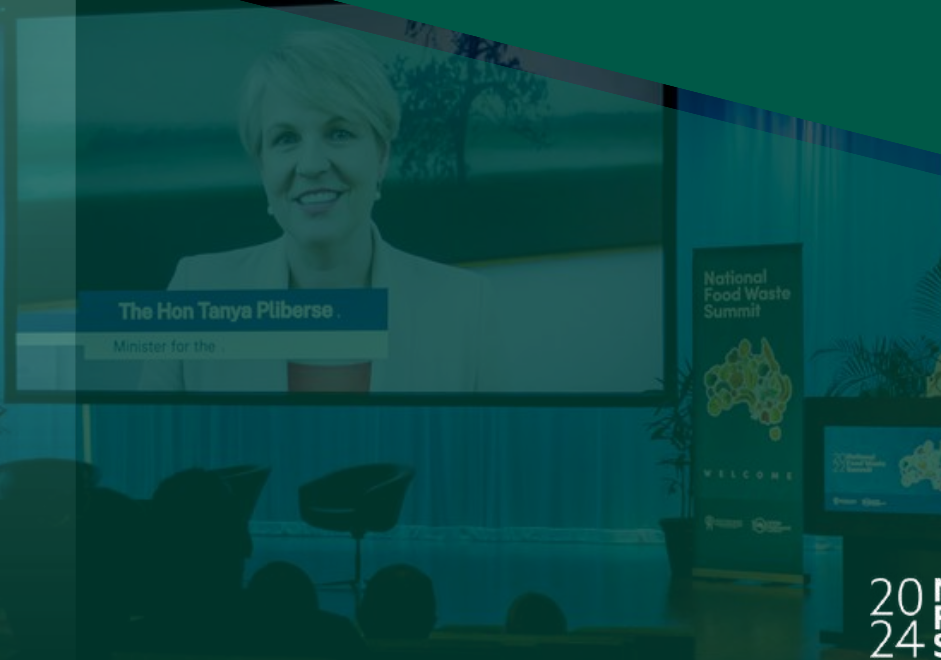

- CEO/CIO/CTO/CISOs
- Decision makers from food and related businesses, supply chain directors, sustainability leads, and cross-industry stakeholders
- Federal, state, territory, and local government representatives, advisors and policy makers
- Scientists and researchers
- Behaviour change and campaign experts
- Students from our Future Leaders program

Exhibitors

As part of the Summit, we are offering the opportunity for organisations to position themselves front and centre before the audience of industry peers and potential customers. The Exhibition will run alongside the National Food Waste Summit and provides an opportunity for exhibitors and delegates alike to network and explore the businesses and initiatives at the forefront of food waste reduction action.

This platform not only elevates brand visibility, it also underscores exhibitors' dedication and commitment to food waste prevention. Showcase your solutions with live demonstrations and talk directly to the event delegates.

For more information about exhibition spaces contact the Summit Events team via summit@endfoodwaste.com.au

OUR KEY THEMES

Food waste is a $36.6 billion problem. In a cost of living crisis, when 3.7 million Australian households are suffering from food insecurity, we can't afford to waste the opportunity this presents.

The Summit provides an opportunity to amplify impact on critical issues, streamlining communications, enhancing public recognition, and fostering stronger collaborations.

Fixing our food waste problem presents a host of environmental, financial and social benefits. Our themes and speakers will explore these concepts, delving into some deep technical opportunities as well as presenting the big picture and the business case for action.

Hear from experts on:

- The scale of the opportunity: how action on the varying types of food waste from paddock to plate delivers high impact
- Industry commitment: how the private sector is critical to our mission in halving food waste and what they're doing
- Changing behaviours: around food waste and food insecurity
- Research and technology innovation
- Measuring and monitoring: what gets measured and managed, and what is the impact
- The policy landscape and how addressing food loss and waste helps organisations and individuals across the sector to meet a host of policy goals
