

CAUTHE 2021 CONFERENCE ONLINE

TRANSFORMATIONS IN UNCERTAIN TIMES: FUTURE
PERFECT IN TOURISM, HOSPITALITY AND EVENTS

9-12 February | #cauthe2021 | We're expecting you!

Event Studies SIG meeting

Friday 12 February 15:00 - 16:00 (AEDT)

Assoc Prof Leonie
Lockstone-Binney

How does the COVID-19 pandemic affect Event Studies?

2020 has seen our professional role(s) adapt in unexpected ways in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. So, for the 2021 CAUTHE Event Studies SIG meeting, colleagues will share their thoughts and reflections as to the effect of the pandemic on Event Studies.

Broadly, the session aims to consider, 'How does the COVID-19 pandemic affect Event Studies, and how - as academics or professionals - we may effect positive responses to benefit Event Studies?'

Invited speakers will give 3-5 minute views/reflections to open up a round-table discussion for all to participate in, to draw out implications for our teaching and research practice.

We look forward to catching up with old, and welcoming new members.

Assoc Prof
Martin Robertson

FOR THOSE WHO ARE NEW TO CAUTHE...

The Event Studies Special Interest Group (SIG) provides a forum for event researchers and educators to contribute to the development of collaborative partnerships through effective cooperation, communication and knowledge sharing.

Specifically, the SIG aims to:

- Foster diverse, critical academic debate to contribute to the development of a strong, theoretically underpinned and informed body of knowledge
- Reinforce the relevance and significance of theoretically informed event studies research through the effective dissemination of knowledge to a diverse audience
- Facilitate and build evidence based teaching and research to support the practical development, implementation and evaluation of events

For more see Event Studies SIG

SIG COORDINATORS