About Greg May

Greg graduated from Law at Adelaide University in December 1984.

He commenced practising in November 1984 with a firm that, through some mergers etc, ultimately became the Adelaide based member of the Minter Ellison Legal Group.

After 21 years as a partner at Minter Ellison, Greg retired from the partnership in 2013. His roles with Minter Ellison over that time included as Chairman (2001 to 2007), Chief Operating Partner (2007 to 2011) and General Counsel (2011 to 2013).

Greg started as the Legal Profession Conduct Commissioner on 1 February 2014, with that role then formally commencing on 1 July 2014. He was appointed initially for a 5 year term, and was subsequently re-appointed for a further 5 year term.

Greg's non-work interests include playing golf and watching sport – mainly the Adelaide Crows and the Adelaide 36ers.

He is married with two adult children.
