How does it work?

By attending either of these sought-after events, your EMCRs develop knowledge and skills to advance their careers, and build networks with prominent and decorated researchers. In addition, by sending your EMCRs to both events your organisation will receive increased exposure across two events.

If you choose to support EMCR grants at both events in 2018 you can select different grantees for each opportunity. The events however, complement each other and combined give EMCRs dynamic, unique and powerful professional development opportunities.

The 2018 opportunities

Science at the Shine Dome 2018

This unique event brings together the foremost and highest achieving scientists of Australia, for a three-day celebration of Australian science.

Your EMCRs will be inspired by hearing from newly elected Fellows and awardees about their latest research across a range of science disciplines. They will also have the opportunity to meet and exchange ideas with renowned scientists, as well as build networks with other early- and mid-career researchers.

Exposure to many prominent and decorated researchers will help your EMCRs build on their scientific networks, and provide them with the building blocks to propel their career, setting them on course to make their mark in academic history.

In addition to hearing from and networking with leading scientists across disciplines, our EMCR Grants include attendance at the annual symposium, the Gala Dinner to be held at the National Gallery of Australia, and an EMCR professional development workshop of their choosing.

Science Pathways 2018: Diversify your thinking

Australia's premier conference focused purely on career development of EMCRs. The highly interactive 2018 program focuses on teaching EMCRs how to achieve equity in STEM; how to access funding from non-traditional sources; and the key considerations for interdisciplinary research.

This conference, run in conjunction with EMCRs, will provide your researchers with the skills necessary for thriving in an academic environment. Your EMCRs will build on existing knowledge and learn new skills essential for future success in their fields.

In addition, this event provides them with the opportunity to meet like-minded EMCRs and network amongst their peers.

The grant includes attendance at two full days of the conference, including a networking evening with Fellows of the Academy and senior science leaders.

Delegates will also attend a workshop by ThinkWell on 'Maximising Research Productivity (and still having a life)'.
