

Innovative Tax Administration A Strategic Workshop

27-29 March 2023 | Tokyo, Japan

Margaret Cotton

Deputy Division Chief, Revenue Administration II, Fiscal Affairs Department, International Monetary Fund (IMF)

Margaret Cotton, a New Zealand national, is employed as a Deputy Division Chief in the International Monetary Fund (IMF) Fiscal Affairs Department Revenue Administration Division. Margaret is responsible for overseeing the revenue administration capacity development work in the Asia Pacific region and has advised numerous countries on tax administration reforms including developing and implementing medium term revenue strategies. Margaret has also helped author a short series of IMF Technical Notes on the use of technology in developing tax administrations.

Prior to joining the IMF, Margaret worked with the New Zealand Inland Revenue Department. She has a Bachelor of Laws and a master's in management with a focus on international development.

