Resilient Infrastructure for Gender Equality

Discussant:

Ronja Bechauf

Policy Analyst
International Institute for
Sustainable Development (IISD)

Ronja Bechauf is a Policy Analyst with IISD’s Economic Law and Policy Program. She works with the Infrastructure and Finance team to demonstrate the track record of sustainable infrastructure. Ronja applies the Sustainable Asset Valuation (SAVi) methodology to help policy-makers make informed infrastructure decisions. She also helps public and private entities create suitable governance arrangements and planning processes for nature-based infrastructure. In addition, Ronja conducts research and engages with procurement stakeholders to integrate sustainability considerations into public procurement processes.

Ronja previously supported IISD as a Policy Consultant. She has produced content for the Sustainable Recovery 2020 campaign, written about nature-based infrastructure, and prepared a policy brief on sustainable infrastructure in Indonesia. While participating in the Carlo Schmid Fellowship program, she supported various systemic assessments of infrastructure projects. She also worked with the Global Subsidies Initiative team to research and write about efforts to reform fossil fuel subsidies.
