

Ansu Tumbahangfe

Director of South South Cooperation
Unit (SSCU)
Helvetas

A strategist, researcher and development implementor with 15 years of experience. Expertise in policy support, program formulation, system development, research, and knowledge management. Her background is in rural development, where she has a double masters – Rural Livelihoods and Global Change (Institute of Social Studies/Erasmus University, The Netherlands) and Rural Development (Tribhuvan University, Nepal).

Currently, the Director of South South Cooperation Unit (SSCU)/Helvetas. A competence centre based in Nepal, which provides TA on trail bridge building and rural access to the Global South. Key areas include the transfer technical know-how and assist in system building. She has authored/co-authored several research papers on rural development published in international journals/bulletins such as American Journal of Evaluation, Rural 21 Journal, UNESCAP Transport and Communication Bulletin for Asia and the Pacific.

