

Older Australians: they don't all live in residential aged care facilities

This presentation will describe the oral health needs of hospitalised older patients and the importance of considering the ageing process as part of general dental practice. Hopefully the audience will leave inspired and realise that there is an important role for the oral health practitioner in the community caring for the oral health of older people.