YOUNG AND NEW INVESTIGATOR SESSION

PNM 2020 will be unique opportunity to present your work, discuss your research in pediatric neurogastroenterology and motility and clinical practice with numerous colleagues and a distinguished faculty from around the globe.

One of the goals of PNM 2020 is to broaden the network of those involved in pediatric neurogastroenterology and motility research and clinical practice. PNM values the participation of investigators who are establishing a clinical and/or research career and offers the opportunity for young investigators to present their research work and learn from peers and faculty. PNM will be offering reduced registration for new investigators with the 8 highest ranked Young Investigators receiving free registration and being selected to deliver their paper at a special Young Investigator Plenary Session. Prior to this, a small group workshop on presenting skills, led by PNM faculty members, will be organised. This will be open to all young investigators attending PNM 2020.

Young investigators submitting abstracts to PNM 2020 are encouraged to apply by ticking the corresponding box during abstract submission.
