WELCOME

On behalf of the Australian and New Zealand Society for Mass Spectrometry (ANZSMS), the International Mass Spectrometry Foundation (IMSF) and its affiliates, we look forward to welcoming you to the 25th International Mass Spectrometry Conference (IMSC) to be held August 17-23, 2024 in Melbourne, Australia.

The conference will cover the full breadth of mass spectrometry, from fundamentals and instrumentation through to the applied chemical and biological sciences. Delegates and their families will have ample opportunity before, during or after the Conference to explore and experience Melbourne and beyond, including our spectacular arts scene, world-class sporting calendar, unique local wildlife, Indigenous Australian experiences, and renowned culinary delights. For many delegates, this will be a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to visit Melbourne to attend the conference, and then to stay for some additional time to experience all that Australia and New Zealand has to offer.

Established in 1970, the aims of ANZSMS are to bring together a broad spectrum of scientists who work in all areas of mass spectrometry, to provide a forum through its meetings for the presentation of research in mass spectrometry and related disciplines, to coordinate local and international networks of practitioners within the field, and to support the career development of its members. The first meeting of ANZSMS was held in Sydney in 1971. Since that time conferences have been held approximately biennially at different locations throughout Australia and New Zealand.

Australia has a proud tradition of academic and industrial mass spectrometry research, with strong global collaborations across all the major disciplines within the field. Since the arrival of the first commercial mass spectrometer in Australia in 1948, Australian and New Zealand researchers have made pioneering contributions to the field of mass spectrometry.

The local organizing committee for IMSC2024 is comprised of close-knit members of the Australian and New Zealand mass spectrometry community from universities, research institutes and industries located within Melbourne and throughout Australia and New Zealand. They have extensive expertise in organizing large national and international scientific conferences, including the biennial ANZSMS conference, the annual conference of the Australasian Proteomics Society, the 6th Conference of the Asia and Oceania Society for Mass Spectrometry (Brisbane, 2015), the 13th International Conference of the Metabolomics Society (Brisbane, 2017), and most recently, the 18th Human Proteome Organization World Congress (Adelaide, 2019)

The ANZSMS has an established policy to provide equal access to resources and opportunity across all aspects of our society (<https://www.anzsms.org/gender-equality/>), and is committed to fostering, cultivating and preserving a culture of respect, diversity, equity and inclusion, including for gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, disability, race, religion, political affiliation, national origin, age, and socio-economic status. This policy will be central to the organizational principles of IMSC2024.
