Rydges Melbourne, 28-31 August

SPONSORSHIP & EXHIBITION PROPOSAL

Leading the change
to break the cycle of violence

INVITATION

No to Violence is delighted to extend a unique invitation to support the No to Violence Conference 2023: Leading the change to break the cycle of violence via a range of sponsorship opportunities.

For 30 years, No to Violence has been leading the change to develop safe and effective interventions for men who use family violence.

The No to Violence Conference 2023: Leading the change to break the cycle of violence will bring together national and international leaders in the field to showcase research, innovative thinking and best practice work to help reduce – and end – men’s family violence.

Representatives of governments, peak bodies, practitioners, policy and policing, researchers, the judiciary and victim-survivors will focus on three key topics: masculinity, children and young people, and best practice.

We will open up challenging conversations about masculinity and how conditioning can form our ideas, beliefs and values that lead to unhealthy, healthy, harmful or dangerous behaviours.

We will hear directly from young people about the complex world they are navigating. We will showcase the innovative programs being launched by young people, for young people to help break the cycles of violence before they begin.

We will explore ways that we can use what we know about men’s family violence to create a safer future for everyone. We know that knowledge and research must inform best practice approaches when engaging men in primary, early and behaviour change interventions.

The conference will energise, motivate, and upskill the sector to engage more men in this process – including people from First Nations, refugee and migrant, LGBTQI+ communities, those with mental health or disability and those in regional and rural communities. We will seek to spotlight First Nations work in each stream.

The Federal Government’s National Plan to End Violence against Women and Children has an ambitious goal to end gender-based violence in one generation.

To achieve this goal, we need to stop the cycle of violence. And we need to start now.

Our Sponsorship and Exhibition Proposal offers an opportunity to showcase your work and commitment to ending men’s family violence with a range of sponsorship options to consider.

Conference venue

No to Violence Conference 2023: Leading the change to break the cycle of violence will be held at the new Rydges Melbourne from 28 – 31 August 2023. Following a complete transformation, Rydges Melbourne will reopen its doors mid-2023 and will be one of Melbourne’s largest conference and event venues.

Perfectly positioned for both business and leisure travellers, Rydges Melbourne is located in the heart of the city’s vibrant theatre district and only moments from exclusive Collins Street boutiques, major sporting precincts, Emporium, Melbourne Central and the Bourke Street Mall.

Expand your network

With an anticipated 300 delegates to attend the conference, it is the perfect opportunity to renew and make new connections with like-minded individuals from industries including:

- governments
- peak bodies
- practitioners
- policy and policing
- researchers
- the judiciary
- victim-survivors
