

1. Developing an international consensus on Entrustable Professional Activities and milestones for entry level dietetics.

Presenter Biographies

Professor Eleanor Beck AdvAPD , University of Wollongong |

https://scholars.uow.edu.au/display/eleanor_beck

Professor Eleanor Beck is Discipline Leader in Nutrition and Dietetics in the School of Medicine, Faculty of Science, Medicine and Health. Eleanor has more than 25 years experience in clinical practice and dietetics education. Eleanor was part of the expert working group for the recent reviews of the National Competency Standards for Dietitians and the Advanced Accrediting Practising Dietitian and Fellow competency standards. Her clinical research includes close links with dietetics service delivery in hospitals, while working with industry partners and international collaborators in grains research. Current projects include review of both individual grains and fibres, as well as cereal fibre and whole grains generally, and their effects on metabolic health. Eleanor is also Deputy Chair of the Council of Deans of Nutrition and Dietetics (ANZ) and the Chair of the Australia New Zealand Steering Committee for the NNEdPro group. NNEdPro (Need for Nutrition Education and Promotion) is a University of Cambridge based think tank, part of a global network to promote nutrition teaching and research in health professions.

Dr Andrea Begley AdvAPD , Curtin University | <https://research.curtin.edu.au/supervisor/dr-andrea-begley/>

Dr Andrea Begley is currently a Senior Lecturer in the School of Public Health. She has been at Curtin as a permanent staff member since 1996 is a highly experienced lecturer winning teaching awards. She is responsible for teaching the food and nutrition sociology and public health nutrition areas for undergraduate and postgraduate students enrolled in a variety of courses. Andrea is a dietetic graduate of Curtin and has since completed studies in Public Health at Masters and Doctorate levels. In 2012 she was awarded Fellow of the Public Health Association of Australia in recognition of significant contribution to PHAA and the field of public health. In 2014 the Dietitians Association of Australia recognised Andrea as an Advanced Accredited Practising Dietitian in recognition of leadership, education, supervision, teaching and health professional training. She has been awarded three grants related to teaching and learning and is leading the work on the development of Entrustable Professional Activities.

Janeane Dart AdvAPD , Monash University | <https://research.monash.edu/en/persons/janeane-dart>

Janeane works in the Faculty of Medicine, Nursing and Health Sciences at Monash University as a Senior Lecturer. Janeane is an Advanced Accredited Practising Dietitian and has over 25 years' experience as a clinical dietitian working within Australia and the UK. She has extensive clinical experience in public and private hospitals, community settings and private practice and has a special interest in gastroenterology, including Inflammatory Bowel Disease and Irritable Bowel Syndrome. She has also held various management positions including Dietetic Manager of a large hospital department in Oxford UK from 2002-2005. She has had extensive experience as a clinical teacher in Australia and the UK and followed her passion for student training and education into the higher education sector, working at Kings College London 2005-2007, completing her Graduate Cert in Academic Practice. Janeane has presented nationally and internationally and published research in the areas of health professional education as well as different clinical areas of nutrition and dietetics. Her primary research interests are in educational research, especially the teaching, learning and assessment of professionalism in dietetic education. This is the focus of her doctoral research.

Dr Mary Hannan-Jones AdvAPD, Queensland University of Technology |

<https://staff.qut.edu.au/staff/m.hannan-jones>

Dr Mary Hannan-Jones is the Director of Academic Programs and a Senior Lecturer in the School of Exercise and Nutrition Sciences. Mary is an Advanced Accredited Practising Dietitian with over 26 years professional experience in both the tertiary education and public sector settings in nutrition and dietetics. Mary is recognised internationally in the field of nutrition and dietetics for expertise in the management of foodservices and regularly undertakes high level consultancies and commercial research for government and industry, including as an expert witness, and provides advice in nutrition and dietetics training in this area.

Mary has led the development and implementation of evidenced based nutrition standards for the correctional sector to assure nutritional adequacy of food provision and continues to make significant contributions to similar nutrition standards in the health sector along with the underpinning research and service evaluation. Mary is currently serving as the chair of the Dietetic Credentialing Council. She has been instrumental in the development of foodservice competencies, the moderation of assessment and the development of entrustable professional activities.