

How to create healthier food environments: the roles of public and private sector action

Dr Stuart Gillespie, International Food Policy Research Institute (United Kingdom)

Stuart Gillespie is a Non-Resident Senior Fellow with the International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI) and an Honorary Associate with the Institute of Development Studies (IDS). He has led a range of different programmes during his 22 years with IFPRI including an ADB-funded consortium on the double burden of malnutrition in Asia, a global initiative on agriculture and health research, the Regional Network on AIDS, Livelihoods and Food Security (RENEWAL), Transform Nutrition, Leveraging Agriculture for Nutrition in South Asia (LANSA), Stories of Change, TANDI, TNWA and the SPEAR (Supporting Policies, Programs and Enabling Action through Research) flagship of the IFPRI-led Agriculture for Nutrition and Health (A4NH) program. He has 170 publications including 9 books.

Dr Namukolo Covic, International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI) (Ethiopia)

Dr Namukolo Covic, International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI) (Ethiopia) Namukolo Covic (PhD) is a Registered Nutritionist with the Health Professions Council of South Africa (HPCSA). She is a Senior Research Coordinator at the International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI) for the CGIAR Research Program on Agriculture for Nutrition and Health (A4NH). She is based in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia where her work includes promoting the use of evidence by African Union and Ethiopian Government efforts that address food security and nutrition. She is serving on the leadership teams of the United Nations Food Systems Summit (UNFSS) process for Action Tracks 1 and 2, on ensuring access to safe nutritious food for all, and shifting to sustainable consumption patterns, respectively. She is an Editor of Global Food Security Journal.

Prof Corinna Hawkes, City University of London (United Kingdom)

Professor Hawkes is Director of the Centre for Food Policy at City, University of London, UK, a Centre dedicated to shaping an effective food system through education, research and policy engagement. She has worked for 20 years with UN agencies, governments, universities and NGOs at the city, national and international level to support the design of more effective policies to improve diets and prevent malnutrition, obesity and non-communicable diseases throughout the food system. She has worked at the World Health Organization, the International Food Policy Research Institute, the University of Sao Paulo and World Cancer Research Fund International, where she established the NOURISHING Framework which tracks policies to promote healthy eating worldwide. In 2018, Corinna was appointed Vice Chair of London's Child Obesity Taskforce. She is also a Distinguished Fellow at the George Institute for Global Health. Corinna blogs at www.thebetterfoodjourney.com.

Mr Nzama Mbalati, HEALA (South Africa)

Nzama Lawrence Mbalati is an experienced social activist with strengths in community and health systems strengthening, community mobilization, policy advocacy, lobbying, human rights and project management. Having worked in the social justice and public health space for over a decade, he is well-versed on issues of politics, policy, health, human rights, inequality and various other socio-economic issues facing the people of South Africa.

Prof Scott Drimie, Stellenbosch University (South Africa)

Scott Drimie leads a research and facilitation consultancy focused on food security, food systems and livelihood issues in southern and eastern Africa. Working with several associates based in the region, Scott consults for various public and private sector organisations. He is an Associate Professor (Extraordinary) in the Department of Interdisciplinary Health Sciences at Stellenbosch University where he chairs the Advisory Board of the University's Food Security Initiative. In addition he serves as a Senior Lecturer (Extraordinary) at the Sustainability Institute, School of Public Leadership.

