Professor Sarah Pink

Bio:
Sarah Pink is Professor and Director of the Emerging Technologies Research Lab at Monash University, an Associate Director of Monash Energy Institute, and leader in the People Programme and Transport & Mobilities Focus Area in the ARC Centre of Excellence for Automated Decision Making and Society. Sarah is a design anthropologist and documentary filmmaker who brings together scholarship, engagement and practice to create new knowledge about the relationship between human, environmental and technological futures. Her latest publications include the books Emerging Technologies / Life at the Edge of the Future (2022) and Design Ethnography (2022) and documentary film Digital Energy Futures (2022).