

Prof. Pia Maly Sundgren

Lund University, Sweden

Professor Pia Maly Sundgren is the head of the Department of Radiology, Clinical Sciences/Lund, Lund University in Sweden, Co-Director for Lund University Biomedicine Center, and senior consultant in neuroradiology at Skåne University hospital, LU, Lund. Her research focuses on advanced MR imaging and conducts imaging research focused on monitoring treatment response and effects of radiation in brain tumors, advanced imaging in autoimmune diseases with special focus on SLE as well as in pain conditions. Her research is conducted both at 3T and 7T. For advanced brain MRI she is an opinion leader and internationally recognized. She is a frequent invited faculty and her topics are broad including lectures on spine, infections, brain tumors and advanced imaging techniques among others. She is, and vice-President of ESNR and chair of the ESNR neuropediatric committee, past president of the ISMRM, General Secretary of WFNRS among others. She is active member of several research councils of various organizations in Sweden and Europe and of many international scientific and executive program committees and faculties. Prof. Sundgren has published over 175 papers and reviews, over 215 scientific abstracts, three books and several book chapters and has given over 320 international invited lectures and workshops worldwide. She received the Nelson Mandela Gold Medal by the RSSA in 2018, and she has been awarded the MICHRS Michigan Clinical and Translational Research Distinguished Mentor Award 2014, the ISMRM Outstanding Teachers Award 2016, and the Lund University Minerva Award for Academic Leadership 2018.