

Dr Kevin Steel

United States

Dr Steel is a practising cardiologist in Bellingham, Washington, USA, part of a hospital-managed cardiology group. He received his formal MRI training at Brigham and Women's Hospital and has published papers on the prognostic value of stress MRI and was directly involved in the development of the SPINS registry (Stress CMR perfusion imaging in the United States). He has built CMR programs for the United States Military, private practice cardiology groups and free-standing imaging centres.