

Dr Berrit Verbist

Leiden University Medical Centre and Holland Proton Therapy Centre
Delft, Netherlands

Dr. Verbist is a head and neck and neuroradiologist at the Leiden University Medical Centre and Holland Proton Therapy Centre in Delft in the Netherlands.

Committed to education she has organized several national and international courses, given numerous lectures inside and outside Europe and has written several book chapters in the field of H&N radiology. Her research is focused on image-based treatment planning and outcome evaluation of head and neck diseases, in particular in the fields of neurotology and oncology.

Previously she was editor of Eurorad for head and neck imaging (<https://www.eurorad.org/>). She serves in various committees of radiological societies, including the Executive Committee of the European Society of Head and Neck radiology and as president of the H&N radiology section of the Dutch Society of Radiology.