

Special Session Proposal

Joint SBCA ERSA Session on Evaluation

Society for Cost-Benefit Analysis (SBCA) and the European Regional Science Association (ERSA) welcome proposals for contributions for a special session on evaluation. In the field of regional and territorial issues, evaluation techniques are called to take an increasing place in policy making. This makes crucial the proper analysis of methodological issues at stake. In this context, the proposed session will gather scholars and practitioners using various evaluation techniques in the areas of interest of Regional Science. The proposed presentation can relate to Cost Benefit Analysis or other assessment techniques, preferably quantitative. We welcome contributions that explore the merits and limits of a single methodology, or the ones that take a comparative or transversal view on various techniques. This applies for instance to CGE modelling used for policy assessment, or other quantitative techniques.
