Welcome

It is with great pleasure that we can announce the 'COVID & IPC in Scotland; a Community Perspective' one day Conference which will take place in the Golden Jubilee Conference Hotel in Glasgow on Tuesday 13th September 2022.

COVID & IPC in Scotland although a new conference is gearing up to be extremely popular due to the ongoing effect and impact of Covid-19 across all services.

When developing the conference for Covid & IPC in Scotland – A Community Perspective, we identified an ideal opportunity to learn and discuss key lessons from the pandemic, and its impact on community lead health services. This conference will really focus on the delivery of services in the community both during Covid and post-Covid, honing in on identifying the paths and method of transmission as the key to understanding and mitigating Covid going forward. The conference will also highlight the challenges of infection prevention and control in the community during the pandemic.

Our comprehensive programme will include (subject to change):

- Moving from pandemic to endemic
- The mental health impact of the first covid lockdown in the UK
- The remobilisation of services
- IPC and Covid-19 – What needs to change?
- Ventilation and transmission
- PPE Controversies/Covid – Dental
- Covid in Schools

This event audience will consist of but not be limited to Infection Control Nurses, Physiotherapists, Mental Health Nurses, Midwives, Theatre Nurses and GPs.

Delegate places will be free of charge which we are confident will attract a high level of registrations.

Your support as a valued exhibitor/sponsor is greatly appreciated and we do hope you can join us.

Yours sincerely,

Professor Andrew Smith &
Professor Stephanie Dancer
