Union for International Cancer Control

The UICC has a membership base of over 1000 organisations in more than 160 countries that represent the world's major cancer societies and influential policy makers, promoting greater equity, cancer care, and integrating cancer into the world health and development agenda.

World Cancer Leaders' Summit

The 2017 World Cancer Leaders' Summit took place in Mexico City with a theme of 'Cities Driving Change.' The event brought together key decision makers from around the world to define compelling messages to support the call to action against cancer.

Their Incredible Impact

The high-level policy meeting was dedicated exclusively to addressing the global spiralling cancer epidemic, with 350 global cancer and public health leaders uniting to discuss solutions in cancer prevention and care into further national action by 2025.

Outcomes

The summit motioned for policy changes in the country, with the Mexican Government officially appointing the National Cancer Institute of Mexico to coordinate the development and implementation of a sustainable national cancer control plan in the country.
