The European Code of Conduct for Research Integrity provides the research community with a framework for good research practice to preserve the quality, reliability, and robustness of research and its results.

PRINCIPLES

Reliability in ensuring the quality of research, reflected in the design, methodology, analysis, and use of resources.

Honesty in developing, undertaking, reviewing, reporting, and communicating research in a transparent, fair, full, and unbiased way.

Respect for colleagues, research participants, research subjects, society, ecosystems, cultural heritage, and the environment.

Accountability for the research from idea to publication, for its management and organisation, for training, supervision, and mentoring, and for its wider societal impacts.

Code of

The recently released 2023 revised edition has been developed following extensive consultation with leading stakeholder organisations, and provides a true common vision for research integrity among the European research community.

PURPOSE & IMPACT

The European Code of Conduct for Research Integrity serves as a model for national and institutional codes of conduct, funding guidelines, training initiatives, discipline-specific standards, and policy documents.

Translations into many European and non-European languages are available on <https://allea.org/code-of-conduct/>.

The European Commission recognises the Code of Conduct as the reference document for research integrity for all EU-funded research.

Conduct for

The 2023 revised edition emphasises research culture, stakeholder responsibility, diversity, data management, GDPR, and Open Science. The European Code of Conduct will adapt to evolving concerns and emerging areas.

ABOUT ALLEA

ALLEA represents more than 50 academies from about 40 EU and non-EU countries. Since its foundation in 1994, ALLEA speaks out on behalf of its members on the European and international stages, promotes science as a global public good, and facilitates scientific collaboration across borders and disciplines. ALLEA is constituted as an autonomous not-for-profit organisation, incorporated as charitable legal entity in the German register of associations.
